Why?

This is a very frequent question asked of us with regard to market fluctuations. People are usually less surprised when the markets slide because there seems to be some “logic” to that action. Often more surprising are the reasons WHY the market is doing well. We are dealing with a pandemic, and wide protests across the nation. How do the markets react... in a word, positively.

We want to share a Forbes article with you, delving more deeply into the nuances surrounding this subject. We hope all of you and your loved ones are healthy and safe. It's hard to believe that we are only weeks away for the official start of summer.
